Supplement S-1: Questions for Home Occupations

NATURE OF HOME OCCUPATION

1. Describe in detail the nature of your home occupation. For instance, "A woodworking fabrication and retail shop in the barn, using existing driveway and parking spaces."

AFFECTED STRUCTURES

2. Fill in a line on the table for each structure on your lot that will be used, wholly or partially, by your proposed major home occupation.

Type of structure or feature: Types of structures and features include a house, camp, garage, bunkhouse, shed, driveway, parking area, etc.

Existing or proposed structure: Check off whether the structure listed presently exists on your property or the structure is being proposed.

Floor area: Provide the total floor area of each structure listed in the table, as well as the amount of floor area that will be utilized by the proposed major home occupation. "Floor area" is the sum of the horizontal areas of the floor(s) of a structure, excluding basements, measured by their exterior dimensions. Floor area includes, but is not limited to, all stories, decks, garages, and greenhouses.

Unless you are operating a child or adult day care services facility, a major home occupation can use up to 50% of the floor area of all principal and accessory structures, up to a limit of 1,500 square feet.

ADDITIONAL QUESTIONS

3. Employees: No more than 2 employees outside the immediate family may work simultaneously at a major home occupation.
- 4-5. Retail sales and traffic: A major home occupation may attract regular clients, customers or students. However, the level of pedestrian and vehicular traffic generated must not significantly exceed that generated by a residence.

According to the Institute for Transportation Engineers manual (1997), the average daily vehicular trips for various housing types ranges from 4 to 21. The average for an American household was 10 trips per day in 2000. Generally, your home business should generate no more than 6 trips in a peak hour or 20 trips for an entire day.

6. Trucks and heavy equipment: You may use or store up to 4 tractor trucks, semi-trailers, and pieces of heavy equipment such as a road grader or backhoe at the site of your major home occupation. If you use or store more, then your activity is considered a commercial use and must be located in a subdistrict where such businesses are permitted.
7. Parking: You may use up to 6 off-street parking spaces for employee vehicles and other traffic generated by your home occupation during peak operating hours. Parking spaces must be screened from view from adjacent properties, access roads, and waters using a buffer of native vegetation (streams that drain fewer than 50 square miles are exempt from this screening requirement – these streams are identified as P-SL2 subdistricts on LURC Land Use Guidance Maps).

Where possible, place parking areas to the side or rear of your dwelling (except in shoreland areas) to lessen the impact of your business on the residential character of the neighborhood.

8. Fuels: You may be required to screen any above ground storage tanks from view.

If you plan to store fuel on your property, you may need to hire an engineer to complete a Spill Prevention and Countermeasure Control (SPCC) plan. Call the Department of Environmental Protection at (207) 287-2651 for help with your plan.

9. Hazardous Materials: A major home occupation may generate less than 27 gallons (about 220 pounds) of waste and may accumulate up to 3 drums (or 1320 pounds) of hazardous waste on site for up to 180 days. These are the limits for occupations that the Department of Environmental Protection classifies as "Small Quantity Generators Plus".

For more information on the Small Quantity Generators Plus program, contact the Department of Environmental Protection at (207) 287-7827.

10. Client Limit: For major home occupations, the maximum number of children or adults for whom you may provide care is 12.

SPECIAL EXCEPTIONS

11. Major home occupations that are not directly related to agriculture or forest management are of sufficient scale and intensity that they are best located in development subdistricts. Accordingly, to obtain permit approval for your proposal, you must document that there is no alternative site within a development subdistrict that is reasonably available to you. Use this space to explain in detail why your proposed major home occupation cannot be located in a development subdistrict.
